on Lesson 1 SB Page 53

Many people enjoy playing games on their phones, computers, or consoles. But can games make you smarter? Some studies have shown that certain games can improve memory, problem-solving skills, and concentration. Puzzle games, strategy games, and brain-training apps help players think carefully and make quick decisions. However, it is important to play in moderation. Spending too much time on games can badly affect schoolwork, sleep, and health. When used wisely, games can be fun and also help your brain work better.

3. Read the following text and answer the following questions:

In many schools, the timetable is one of the most important tools for managing the school day. It tells students which subjects they have, when lessons begin, and what materials they should bring. Each morning, teachers review the timetable with their classes to make sure everyone is prepared. When changes happen—such as competitions, or special celebrations—students must adjust quickly. This helps them develop responsibility and problem-solving skills. The timetable also includes short breaks between lessons. These pauses allow students to rest, organize their notebooks, and mentally prepare for the next subject. Without these breaks, the school day would feel longer and more stressful. For many students, the timetable acts like a compass, guiding them through the day and helping them stay on track.

At our school, the day starts at 8:00 a.m. and finishes at 3:00 p.m., with eight periods every day and short(4) between lessons.

4. Read the following text, then answer the questions:

In many schools, the timetable is one of the most important tools for managing the day. It tells students which subjects they have, when lessons begin, and what materials they should bring. Each morning, teachers review the timetable with their classes to make sure everyone is prepared. When changes happen—such as competitions, or special celebrations—students must adjust quickly. This helps them develop responsibility and problem-solving skills.

The timetable also includes short breaks between lessons. These pauses allow students to rest, organize their notebooks, and mentally prepare for the next subject. Without these breaks, the school day would feel longer and more stressful. For many students, the timetable acts like a compass, guiding them through the day and helping them stay on track. It not only keeps the school running smoothly but also teaches students how to manage time effectively.

8. Write a paragraph of ONE HUNDRED (100) words on:

1. School Rules

القواعد المدرسية

School rules are very important for everyone. They help create a safe and organized place for learning. Without rules, the classroom would be noisy and chaotic. Rules teach us respect. We respect our teachers by listening carefully, and we respect our classmates by being kind.

Following rules, like arriving on time and wearing our uniform, shows that we are responsible students. We must not run in the hallways so that no one gets hurt. Also, keeping our school clean makes it a beautiful environment. When everyone follows the rules, we can all focus on our lessons and enjoy school.

2. The importance of the school timetable

أهمية الجدول المدرسي

A school timetable is very important. It helps the school day run well. It shows what students do each lesson. It tells them what books to bring. It tells them when to be ready. Teachers use it to give time to every subject. Students move from class to class on time. Short breaks help them rest. Sometimes special days change the timetable. But students should still follow it. A timetable helps students stay organized. It helps them use time well. It teaches self control and responsibility. It also teaches respect for time and learning in school and in daily life.

3. A typical school day

يوم دراسي نموذجي

A school day starts early in the morning. Students follow a clear timetable. The day has many lessons and activities. Each class has one subject. Teachers explain lessons slowly and clearly. Classrooms are clean and tidy. Students have short breaks to rest. They get ready for the next lesson. The school has a library and a computer lab. There is also a gym for sports. After lessons, students can join clubs. They can play on sports teams. A good school day helps students stay organized. It helps them use time well. It helps them learn better. They enjoy their day at school. They feel happy and ready to learn every day.
